Brown Eyes Motor Company is introducing a fleet of handbags inspired by classic automobiles from the past. Designed by Amy Isenhour, each model is a fashion statement as well as a conversation piece. Amy is the daughter of an antique dealer and a lover of vintage anything. Her first car was a 1966 Mustang convertible and it was then that she realized one gets a lot of attention when driving a classic. Having made this "head turning" discovery, she combined her passion for the classics with her desire to design unique fashion accessories. And so the Brown Eyes Motor Company collection was born.
