

Four Colors al Fresco

The Setting

Four Colors al Fresco is a roleplaying game of pulp-style adventure, set in an alternate Renaissance. The basic setting is Renaissance Italy – as it might have been. Had there been fantastic, pre-industrial advanced technologies in the hands of a few. Had the Black Death never come. Had the remnants of highly-advanced civilizations been scattered around the world. Had reality been governed by mystical Forces instead of scientific laws. Had there been maniacal geniuses constantly plotting to take over the world. And, most importantly, had there been superheroes to thwart them.

But these are not the superheroes of our times, or even our parents' times – these are the superheroes of our grandparents' times, the action heroes of the pulps. Before the term “superhero” was coined. Before spandex costumes. When a man with a maniacal laugh, a pair of six-shooters, and the sole power to “cloud men’s minds” had the power to send villains scurrying for their holes. Pulp heroes are only slightly better than the rest of us, not the breed apart of the modern superhero. They may laugh in the face of an armed man, but it is not because they are unthreatened. They may operate outside the law, but only because the authorities have chosen to allow it. And they rarely have the luxury of existing outside the norms of society for more than an evening at a time. In short, while they have exceptional powers, pulp heroes are not so powerful that they may ignore the rest of society.

The style of this roleplaying game is one of action and adventure in a morally-clear world. The villains are Evil, and the heroes are Good, and rarely is there any doubt as to which is which. Doing good doesn't result in unintended bad consequences, and the bad guys are not just misunderstood or misguided. Your characters are the heroes of this world, people gifted with extraordinary gifts and driven by moral principles.

The world, as well as all those within it, is governed by five mystical Forces, the interactions of which determine everything that happens and exists. Much as our own world is governed by the forces of electricity, magnetism, gravity, and the nuclear forces, which together can explain why everything is the way it is, and why everything happens the way it does, the world of Four Colors al Fresco is governed by five Forces. Dynamic, Static, Lost, Known,

The Forces

Known: Governed by Mercury, Patron of Discovery, the Known is the Force of science and deduction and the rational world.

Passion: Governed by Venus, Goddess of Passion, Passion is the Force of emotion and feeling.

Dynamic: Governed by Mars, God of War, Dynamic is the Force of motion and action and change.

Static: Governed by Jupiter, the Eternal Ruler, Static is the Force of stability and the status quo.

Lost: Governed by Saturn, the Mystic, the Lost is the Force of faith, the mystical and magical, and the forgotten.

and Passion are the Forces that govern the existences and interactions of this world. Every action, every happening, every thing in the world is caused by the interactions of these 5 forces, but, generally, one or two of the forces so strongly govern a particular activity that the rest are overshadowed. When the Dynamic Force holds sway, the rock falls. When the Static Force holds sway, it stays put. Throughout most of the world, they provide a sort of balance – some things and situations are governed more by one Force or another, but on a broad scale everything balances out. But a few exceptional individuals are not in harmony with the world. The Forces do not pay equal attention to them. Some of the Forces pay them more heed, while others seem to give them short shrift, and still others apparently just overlook them on occasion. These are the Omegas, individuals who have been forgotten by one of the Forces, and thus defy the normal laws of nature in some small way. It is these Omegas that are the villains and heroes of this world.

The Rules

The rules are based on 3 basic concepts: Descriptors, Planets, and Storypath cards. Descriptors make up the bulk of a character's description, and resolve the bulk of actions. Descriptors are purely descriptive, with no numerical or other "mechanical" component. Utilizing them is a purely narrative affair, involving the Storyguide and players agreeing on how they apply.

In the event that Descriptors can not resolve a situation, the Planets may be employed. The Planets correspond to the Forces, and determine to what degree each Force affects a character. To use them, you "roll the Planets", which involves rolling the dice for all of your characters Planets, and then ordering them according to results. This forms the Hierarchy, with the smallest result at the top, in the Dominant position.

Successively larger results are further down the Hierarchy, occupying, in order, the Major, Minor, and Weak positions. If a Force favorable to the action lands high in the Hierarchy, the action is successful, while if a Force unfavorable to the action ends up near the top of the Hierarchy, it fails.

There are also Circumstance dice, which serve to modify the results of the Hierarchy. These are never based on the characters' Descriptors, but reflect external situations. They sit outside of the Hierarchy.

Storypath cards are used to shift the balance of power from Storyguide to player. When a player uses a Storypath card, she gains complete authorial control over the game (except for other players' characters) for a little while. Storypath cards that are played in such a way as to be, on balance, detrimental to the group, earn the player an immediate draw for a new card.

There are also mechanics based on the notions of Title and Miniseries, and upon the units of time of Panel, Page, and Issue. The Title is the comic book series that contains the characters' exploits. All those characters that are regular members of the current Title are considered Main characters, while any others are Guest characters. A Title also has Storypath cards, and players of Main characters of that Title may use them. Any player may put Storypath cards into the Title, and upon doing so immediately draw a new card for their hand.

Character Creation

Once you have a concept for your character, there are 3 steps to realizing her in game terms.

First you need to rate her Planets. For 4 of the Planets, you will simply rate how strongly that force

Die	Descriptors
d3*	5 Traits
d4	4 Traits
d5	4 Traits
d6	3 Traits
d7	3 Traits
d8	3 Traits
d10	2 Traits
d12	3 Traits; at least 1 Flaw
d16	4 Traits; at least 2 Flaws
d20	3 Traits; at least 2 Flaws
d24*	3 Traits; at least 2 Flaws; no Power Stunts
d30*	2 Flaws
d34*	3 Flaws
Ω	1 Power, 1 Weakness, & 1 Quirk

influences the character. You assign each of her Planets a die, which is what you roll for that Force when resolving an action. Low rolls are better, so the smaller the die-type, the more strongly that force rules the character. You must get Storyguide permission to use the die-types on the chart that are not in bold.

One of the planets is not rated. It is designated with an Ω, and is a force that doesn't govern the character normally. She is "out of the sight of" that planet. It is from this Force (or rather, its lack) that her powers stem. Every character has a Power, a Weakness, and a Quirk associated with the Ωed Planet. Usually, the Power and Weakness are related – often the Weakness is something that negates the Power – but this is not necessary. The Quirk helps to define exactly how the Force of that Planet doesn't affect the character.

Once the Power, Weakness, and Quirk have been determined, the third and final step is detailing the character's Traits. For each Planet with a die rating, consult the chart to determine how many Traits that Planet grants, and any limitations on how they may be used. Every Trait must be somehow related to the Force that the Planet governs.

One special kind of Trait is the Power Stunt. This is a specific special use of the character's Power, which is practiced and thus just as reliable as the character's Power itself. Another special Trait is a Flaw. As the name implies, a Flaw is primarily negative, and limits the character in some way. Power Stunts and Flaws should be labeled as such, but otherwise abide by all of the same rules as any other Trait.

As finishing steps, you should record the color of the die you are going to use for each planet, and draw your Storypath cards. Each player begins play with a number of Storypath cards equal to the number of rated Planets her character has. Decide on a name, and record the character's Title(s), and you're ready to play.

Glossary

Descriptors: everything, besides the Planet scores, that expresses your character in game-mechanical terms; essentially everything on your character sheet except for the Storypath cards and Planets (and Name). Some have special names, such as Traits, Flaws, Powers, etc.

Dynamic: the Force of action and movement and change. Governed by Mars, God of War.

Flaw: A special kind of Trait. Flaws are Traits that are almost always negative in effect, and thus a detriment to the Character. A Flaw is something that the Character would like to be rid of.

Guest Characters: all of the Ω s other than the Main characters. Usually, there are one or more villainous Guest characters in an Issue, and there may also be heroic Guests, who are not part of the Main characters, but are Crossing Over (q.v.). They are almost always played by the Storyguide.

Hierarchy: The ordering of the dice, and thus their corresponding Forces, when they are rolled. It is the Hierarchy that determines the outcome of an in-question action. The smaller the number on the die, the higher it is in the Hierarchy. The top position (lowest number), which may only be occupied uniquely, is labeled Dominant. The next highest position, or highest if the lowest number is tied, is labeled Major. The lowest position, which again may only be occupied uniquely, is labeled Weak. The final position, above Weak and below Major, is labeled Minor. The Dominant and Major positions are favorable, and indicate success if Favored Forces fall into them. The Weak position is unfavorable, and indicates failure if a Favored Force falls into it.

Issue: a single session (evening/afternoon) of game play. Most Issues contain multiple Pages, and they are often grouped into Miniseries.

Known: the Force of science, reason, and the rational world. Governed by Mercury, Patron of Discovery.

Lost: the Force of the mystical, magical, and forgotten. The source of faith and magic, and the governing Force for esoteric occult knowledges. Governed by Saturn, the Mystic.

Main character: a character played by one of the Players. They are the characters around whom the stories of every Issue revolve.

Main Title: The exploits of the characters are organized in a number of ways. One of those is the concept of Title(q.v.). The Main Title is the Title that includes all of the characters as Main Characters (q.v.).

Miniseries: a series of Issues that are all linked together to form a single plot. The Issues of a Miniseries usually are part of a single Title, but this is not necessarily the case, and it's perfectly reasonable for a Miniseries to span as many Titles as it has Issues.

Passion: the Force of emotions and feelings. Governed by Venus, Goddess of Passion.

Page: a series of events that are all tightly tied together and take place in a short span of time in a single location. Essentially, a scene. A Page may be made up of any number of Panels, including none. Depending on the nature of the activities it encompasses, it won't always be divided into Panels. A series of Pages make up an Issue.

Panel: the smallest unit of time in the game system. During one Panel, a character may accomplish one simple action, such as making an attack, lifting a sinking ship, or delivering some dialog. More complex actions, such as disarming a complex trap, delivering a monologue, debating a course of action, or laying an ambush, will take multiple Panels.

Planets: the dice ratings on your character sheet. They rate how much the various Forces affect your character; Smaller numbers indicate a stronger influence. Also, a metaphorical term for the Forces; each Force is thought to be governed by one of the known Planets.

Power: The advantageous special Descriptor associated with your Ω ed Planet. Powers generally fall outside the bounds of normal reality in the world. A Power should be somehow exceptional, either in nature or degree, so as to keep it distinct from other Traits.

Power Stunt: a special kind of Trait. Power Stunts are special uses of a Power that aren't outside of its purview, but aren't necessarily an inherent part of it, either. A Power Stunt guarantees the ability to utilize the Power in this borderline area.

Quirk: the Descriptor that stems from an Ω ed Planet. which is neither advantageous nor disadvantageous on the whole. Like a Weakness or Power, it should be somehow exceptional or supernatural.

Static: the Force of stability and the status quo. Governed by Jupiter, the Eternal Ruler.

Storyguide (SG): the Storyguide is the participant who currently isn't a regular player. It is her job to detail the setting, play all of the extra characters, provide a scenario, and adjudicate actions.

Title: the collected adventures of a particular Ω or group of Ω s.

Traits: Descriptors other than your Power/Weakness/ Quirk. Some of these are in turn given special names, such as Flaws and Power Stunts.

Weakness: The disadvantageous special Descriptor associated with your Ω ed Planet. Many Weaknesses tie directly to the Power, and either limit it in some way, negate it under some circumstances, or provide a way to counter it. But this need not be the case, and a Weakness could work in any way. What is important is that it be somehow exceptional, either in degree or nature, or it would simply be a Flaw Trait.

Ω (Omega): Someone who is "out of the sight of" one of the Planets, and therefore not limited to the normal rules of the Force it governs. As a result, they have what we would call superpowers, and are often capable of feats well beyond human norms. Nobody knows who first used the term " Ω ", but it is suspected that it was someone trying to be clever and show their learning by making a reference to the end of normal laws where these people are concerned.

0. Preamble

The purpose of this License is to make a rulebook, game manual, sourcebook, supplement, or other written role-playing game document “free” in the sense that everyone is permitted to copy and redistribute it, with or without modifying it, either commercially or noncommercially. Secondly, this License preserves for the author and publisher a way to get credit for their work, while not being considered responsible for modifications made by others.

This License is a kind of “copyleft”, which means that derivative works of the document must themselves be free in the same sense. It is based largely upon the GNU Free Documentation License, which is a copyleft license designed for software manuals and textbooks.

We have designed this License in order to use it for rulebooks and sourcebooks for role-play gaming, in the hope that a convenient and complete open license for role-play gaming material will encourage the cooperative creation of a greater variety and quality of games. We recommend this License principally for works whose purpose is instruction or reference for a role-playing game.

1. Applicability and Definitions

This License applies to any manual or other work that contains a notice placed by the copyright holder saying it can be distributed under the terms of this License. The “Document”, below, refers to any such manual or work, including its text, charts, artwork, and other content. Any member of the public who accepts this license is a licensee, and is addressed as “you”.

A “Modified Version” of the Document means any work containing the Document or a portion of it, either copied verbatim, or with modifications and/or translated into another language.

A “Secondary Section” is a named appendix or a front-matter section of the Document that deals exclusively with the relationship of the publishers or authors of the Document to the Document's overall subject (or to related matters) and contains nothing that could fall directly within that overall subject. (For example, if the Document is in part a compendium of creatures and monsters, a Secondary Section may not describe or depict any creatures or monsters.) The relationship could be a matter of historical connection with the subject or with related matters, or of legal, commercial, philosophical, ethical or political position regarding them.

The “Invariant Sections” are certain Secondary Sections whose titles are designated, as being those of Invariant Sections, in the notice that says that the Document is released under this License.

The “Cover Texts” are certain short passages of text that are listed, as Front-Cover Texts or Back-Cover Texts, in the notice that says that the Document is released under this License.

An “Editable” copy of the Document means a machine-readable copy, represented in a format whose specification is available to the general public, whose contents can be viewed and edited directly and straightforwardly with generic text editors or common word processors or (for images composed of pixels) generic paint programs or (for drawings) some widely available drawing editor, and that is suitable for input to text formatters or for automatic translation to a variety of formats suitable for input to text formatters. A copy made in an otherwise Editable file format whose markup has been designed to thwart or discourage subsequent modification by readers is not Editable. A copy that is not “Editable” is called “Fixed”.

Examples of suitable formats for Editable copies include plain ASCII text without markup, Rich Text Format (RTF), SGML or XML using a publicly available DTD, and standard- conforming simple HTML designed for human modification.

Fixed formats include PostScript, Adobe Acrobat (PDF), proprietary formats that can be read and edited only by specific word processors such as WordPerfect or Microsoft Word, SGML or XML for which the DTD and/or processing tools are not generally available, and the machine-generated HTML produced by some word processors for output purposes only.

The “Title Page” means, for a printed book, the title page itself, plus such following pages as are needed to hold, legibly, the material this License requires to appear in the title page. For works in formats which do not have any title page as such, “Title Page” means the text near the most prominent appearance of the work's title, preceding the beginning of the body of the text.

2. Verbatim Copying

You may copy and distribute the Document in any medium, either commercially or noncommercially, provided that this License, the copyright notices, and the license notice saying this License applies to the Document are reproduced in all copies, and that you add no other conditions whatsoever to those of this License. You may not use technical measures to obstruct or control the reading or further copying of the copies you make or distribute. However, you may accept compensation in exchange for copies. If you distribute as many copies as described in the opening paragraph of section 3, you must also follow the conditions in section 3.

You may also lend copies, under the same conditions stated above, and you may publicly display copies.

3. Copying in Quantity

If you publish printed copies of the Document numbering more than 100, and the Document's license notice requires Cover Texts, you must enclose the copies in covers that carry, clearly and legibly, all these Cover Texts: Front-Cover Texts on the front cover, and Back-Cover Texts on the back cover. Both covers must also clearly and legibly identify you as the publisher of these copies. The front cover must present the full title with all words of the title equally prominent and visible. You may add other material on the covers in addition. Copying with changes limited to the covers, as long as they preserve the title of the Document and satisfy these conditions, can be treated as verbatim copying in other respects.

If the required texts for either cover are too voluminous to fit legibly, you should put the first ones listed (as many as fit reasonably) on the actual cover, and continue the rest onto adjacent pages.

If you publish or distribute Fixed copies of the Document numbering more than 100, you must either a) state in or with each Fixed copy a publicly-accessible computer-network location containing a complete Editable copy of the Document, free of added material, which the general network- using public has access to download anonymously at no charge using public-standard network protocols, or b) include a machine-readable Editable copy along with each Fixed copy. If you use the former option, you must take reasonably prudent steps, when you begin distribution of Fixed copies in quantity, to ensure that this Editable copy will remain thus accessible at the stated location until at least one year after the last time you distribute a Fixed copy (directly or through your agents or retailers) of that edition to the public.

It is requested, but not required, that you contact the authors of the Document well before redistributing any large number of copies, to give them a chance to provide you with an updated version of the Document.

4. Modifications

You may copy and distribute a Modified Version of the Document under the conditions of sections 2 and 3 above, provided that you release the Modified Version under precisely this License, with the Modified Version filling the role of the Document, thus licensing distribution and modification of the Modified Version to whoever possesses a copy of it. In addition, you must do these things in the Modified Version:

- A. Use in the Title Page (and on the covers, if any) a title distinct from that of the Document, and from those of previous versions (which should, if there were any, be listed in the History section of the Document). You may use the same title as a previous version if the original publisher of that version gives explicit permission.
- B. List on the Title Page, as authors, one or more persons or entities responsible for authorship of the modifications in the Modified Version. You may list the principal authors of a previous version if those individuals give their explicit permission.
- C. State on the Title page the name of the publisher of the Modified Version, as the publisher.
- D. Preserve all the copyright notices of the Document.
- E. Add an appropriate copyright notice for your modifications adjacent to the other copyright notices.
- F. Include, immediately after the copyright notices, a license notice giving the public permission to use the Modified Version under the terms of this License, in the form shown in the Addendum below.

- G. Preserve in that license notice the full lists of Invariant Sections and required Cover Texts given in the Document's license notice.
- H. Include an unaltered copy of this License.
- I. Preserve the section entitled "History", and its title, and add to it an item stating at least the title, year, new authors, and publisher of the Modified Version as given on the Title Page. If there is no section entitled "History" in the Document, create one stating the title, year, authors, and publisher of the Document as given on its Title Page, then add an item describing the Modified Version as stated in the previous sentence.
- J. Preserve the network location, if any, given in the Document for public access to an Editable copy of the Document, and likewise the network locations given in the Document for previous versions it was based on. These may be placed in the "History" section. You may omit a network location for a work that was published at least four years before the Document itself, or if the original publisher of the version it refers to gives permission.
- K. In any section entitled "Acknowledgements" or "Dedications", preserve the section's title, and preserve in the section all the substance and tone of each of the contributor acknowledgements and/or dedications given therein.
- L. Delete any section entitled "Endorsements". Such a section may not be included in the Modified Version.
- M. Any Invariant Section of the Document must either remain unaltered in its text, artwork, and title, or it must be removed from the Modified Version. Invariant Sections may not be edited or modified. Section numbers or the equivalent are not considered part of the section titles.
- N. Do not retile any existing section as "Endorsements" or to conflict in title with any Invariant Section.

If the Modified Version includes new front-matter sections or appendices that qualify as Secondary Sections and contain no material copied from the Document, you may at your option designate some or all of these sections as invariant. To do this, add their titles to the list of Invariant Sections in the Modified Version's license notice. These titles must be distinct from any other section titles.

You may add a section entitled "Endorsements", provided it contains nothing but endorsements of your Modified Version by various parties – for example, quotations from reviews, or that the text has been approved by an organization as the authoritative version of a setting.

You may add a passage of up to five words as a Front-Cover Text, and a passage of up to 25 words as a Back-Cover Text, to the end of the list of Cover Texts in the Modified Version. Only one passage of Front-Cover Text and one of Back-Cover Text may be added by (or through arrangements made by) any one entity. If the Document already includes a cover text for the same cover, previously added by you or by arrangement made by the same entity you are acting on behalf of, you may not add another; but you may replace the old one, on explicit permission from the previous publisher that added the old one.

The author(s) and publisher(s) of the Document do not by this License give permission to use their names for publicity for or to assert or imply endorsement of any Modified Version.

5. Combining Documents

You may combine the Document with other documents released under this License, under the terms defined in section 4 above for modified versions.

The combined work need only contain one copy of this License, and multiple identical Invariant Sections included in the Modified Document may be replaced with a single copy. If there are multiple Invariant Sections with the same name but different contents, make the title of each such section unique by adding at the end of it, in parentheses, the name of the original author or publisher of that section if known, or else a unique number. Make the same adjustment to the section titles in the list of Invariant Sections in the license notice of the combined work.

In the combination, you must combine any sections entitled "History" in the various original documents, forming one section entitled "History"; likewise combine any sections entitled "Acknowledgements", and any sections entitled "Dedications". You must delete all sections entitled "Endorsements."

6. Collections of Documents

You may make a collection consisting of the Document and other documents released under this License, and replace the individual copies of this License in the various documents with a single copy that is included in the collection, provided that you follow the rules of this License for verbatim copying of each of the documents in all other respects.

You may extract a single document from such a collection, and distribute it individually under this License, provided you insert a copy of this License into the extracted document, and follow this License in all other respects regarding verbatim copying of that document.

7. Aggregation with Independent Works

A compilation of the Document or its derivatives with other separate and independent documents or works, in or on a volume of a storage or distribution medium, does not as a whole count as a Modified Version of the Document, provided no compilation copyright is claimed for the compilation. Such a compilation is called an "aggregate", and this License does not apply to the other self-contained works thus compiled with the Document, on account of their being thus compiled, if they are not themselves derivative works of the Document.

If the Cover Text requirement of section 3 is applicable to these copies of the Document, then if the Document is less than one quarter of the entire aggregate, the Document's Cover Texts may be placed on covers that surround only the Document within the aggregate. Otherwise they must appear on covers around the whole aggregate.

8. Translation

Translation is considered a kind of modification, so you may distribute translations of the Document under the terms of section 4. Replacing Invariant Sections with translations requires special permission from their copyright holders, but you may include translations of some or all Invariant Sections in addition to the original versions of these Invariant Sections. You may include a translation of this License provided that you also include the original English version of this License. In case of a disagreement between the translation and the original English version of this License, the original English version will prevail.

9. Termination

You may not copy, modify, sublicense, or distribute the Document except as expressly provided for under this License. Any other attempt to copy, modify, sublicense or distribute the Document is void, and will automatically terminate your rights under this License. However, parties who have received copies, or rights, from you under this License will not have their licenses terminated so long as such parties remain in full compliance.

10. Future Revisions of This License

The RPG Library may publish new, revised versions of the October Open Game License from time to time. Such new versions will be similar in spirit to the present version, but may differ in detail to address new problems or concerns. See <<http://www.rpglibrary.org>>.

Each version of the License is given a distinguishing version number. If the Document specifies that a particular numbered version of this License "or any later version" applies to it, you have the option of following the terms and conditions either of that specified version or of any later version that has been published (not as a draft) by the RPG Library. If the Document does not specify a version number of this License, you may choose any version ever published (not as a draft) by the RPG Library.

11. How to Use This License for Your Documents

To use this License in a document you have written, include a copy of the License in the document and put the following copyright and license notices just after the title page:

Copyright © YEAR YOUR NAME.

Permission is granted to copy, distribute and/or modify this document under the terms of the October Open Game License, Version 1.0 or any later version published by the RPG Library; with the Invariant Sections being LIST THEIR TITLES, with the Front-Cover Texts being LIST, and with the Back-Cover Texts being LIST.

A copy of the license is included in the section entitled "October Open Game License".

If you have no Invariant Sections, write "with no Invariant Sections" instead of saying which ones are invariant. If you have no Front-Cover Texts, write "no Front-Cover Texts" instead of "Front-Cover Texts being LIST"; likewise for Back-Cover Texts.

If your document is accompanied by executable program code (such as character generation software or a dice-rolling utility), we recommend releasing these in parallel under your choice of open software license, such as the GNU General Public License.
